New hurdles for drug-injection sites

Do no harm?

Supporters decry Ottawa's tougher rules for establishing facilities like Vancouver's Insite

MATT KIELTYKA

matt.kieltyka@metronews.ca

The operator of Canada's only supervised injection site has dismissed government claims that tougher new criteria for future facilities are aimed at reducing harm.

The Conservative government introduced the Respect for Communities Act Thursday, which outlines a new application process for operators seeking Health Canada approval for supervised drug-consumption sites.

The requirements include obtaining support from local law enforcement, municipal leaders, public-health officials and provincial ministers, as well as submitting studies on potential impacts, public need and operational plans.

The language in the government announcement provides little room for doubt that the steps are intended to make future facilities like Vancouver's Insite — which has had more than 1.8 million visits since it opened in 2003 — more difficult to establish.

"Our government believes that creating a location for sanctioned use of drugs obtained from illicit sources has the potential for great harm in a community," said Health Minister Leona Aglukkaq.

Tom Stamatakis, president

Russell Maynard, program director at Insite operator Portland Hotel Society, is not pleased with new federal guidelines released Thursday for establishing supervised injection sites. JENNIFER GAUTHIER/FOR METRO of the Canadian Police Association and the Vancouver Police Union, added, "My experience in Vancouver is that these sites also lead to an increase in criminal behaviour and disorder in the surrounding community."

Such claims are "rubbish," according to Mark Townsend, executive director of Insite operator Portland Hotel Society.

In 2011 the Supreme Court of Canada ruled against the government's bid to shut down Insite, saying "the evidence indicates that a supervised injection site will decrease the risk of death and disease, and there is little or no evidence that it will have a negative impact on public safety."

Townsend said, "This is an issue of politics, not of good policy. They lost in Supreme Court so now they're putting up all these roadblocks. The sky is not falling because of an injection site in Vancouver."

Mayor Gregor Robertson also refuted the claim that Insite has had a negative effect in the city.

"Especially in light of the Supreme Court's affirmation of the program's proven ability to prevent overdose deaths and the spread of disease, I am strongly opposed to any legislative or regulatory changes which would impede Insite's successful operations," Robertson said, via written statement. "I remain strongly supportive of Insite and the significant positive impact that it has had both in the lives of its users and for our broader community."

Vancouver police spokesperson Sgt. Randy Fincham acknowledged, "It has saved lives. It has minimized the impact on these individuals."

Police could not provide statistics showing what impact, positive or negative, Insite has had on crime in the community.

Fincham, who said the department would follow federal guidelines, added that Stamatakis was not speaking on behalf of the VPD.

Vancouver Coastal Health, which helps operate Insite, defended the harm-reduction value of supervised injection sites.

"People forget how bad it used to be. We had HIV rates among the highest in the world. Now it's one of the lowest," said VCH spokesperson Anna Marie D'Angelo. "It's never safe to do street drugs, we've never said it is. But no one has ever died in Insite from an overdose."

VCH — the local authority that would need to seek Health Canada approval — has no plans for more injection sites in Vancouver, but it could integrate supervised injection into other services, D'Angelo said.

The Canadian Medical Association is also not happy with the new criteria, saying the bill was "founded upon ideology" and not scientific evidence.

Syphilis rates reach 'epidemic proportions'

If you're sexually active, go get tested.

Skyrocketing syphilis rates prompted Vancouver Coastal Health and the British Columbia Centre for Disease Control to urge sexually active men who have sex with men to get tested for the highly contagious disease every three months.

Syphilis rates in the Lower Mainland are at their highest in 30 years, according to a statement from VCH medical health officer Dr. Réka Gustafson.

Of the 371 cases reported in B.C. in 2012, 80 per cent were diagnosed in Vancouver.

Syphilis is spread primarily through sexual activity, including oral, vaginal or anal sex.

"A lot of people believe that just because they performed oral sex ... they're practising 'safe sex.' But syphilis spreads easily through any form of sexual contact," Dr. Rich Lester, medical head of the BC-CDC's Sexually Transmitted Infections/HIV division, said in a statement.

Safe sex is crucial because there are often no symptoms in the early stages of syphilis, he said.

Syphilis increases a person's risk of getting HIV, according to VCH, which states 60 per cent of syphilis cases are also HIV positive.

Common symptoms include sores resembling bug bites, rashes on the palms and soles, fever, swollen lymph glands and weight loss.

While health officials say syphilis rates are at "epidemic proportions," Chlamydia is by far the most reported infectious disease in the province with nearly 12,000 cases last year. EMILY JACKSON/METRO

City plans three more separated bike lanes

$3-million price tag.
New lanes would help Vancouver along to 2040 commuting goal

EMILY JACKSON
emily.jackson@metronews.ca

Cyclist-car separation could be coming to an intersection near you.

The city wants to build three new separated-bike-lane projects, at a cost of $2.95 million, in 2013, so as to meet Vancouver's goal of seeing more people commute on two wheels by 2040.

If council approves the staff recommendations, expect major upgrades to Union Street from Gore to Carrall to the seawall ($700,000), the Canada Line Bridge Connection in South Vancouver ($750,000) and the north end of the Cambie Street Bridge to Beatty Street (up to $1.5 million).

Separated lanes mean safer roads, according to the staff report, which claims dedicated bike lanes on Hornby and Dunsmuir Streets reduced collisions by 20 per cent in 2012.

The proposal would improve safety at hot spots in the cycling network as more people travel by bike. In 2011, 19,400 more trips were made by bike than in 2008, according to TransLink's Trip Diary.

Safer routes also encourage women to bike, according to the report. The proportion of women on two wheels increased to 41 per cent from 30 per cent, but women still steer clear of the Burrard Bridge despite the separated bike lanes.

While public consultation for bike lanes on the downtown Cambie Bridge yielded no concerns, the first two projects met with a little more resistance regarding traffic and parking.

The proposal to completely block vehicles from the segment of Union Street just

Paying for it

TransLink plans to contribute $705,000, while the city will foot the rest of the bill from its capital budget. This is on top of $5.46 million for the two-kilometre Comox-Helmcken greenway, which includes separated bike lanes in some sections.

west of Main Street drew ire from small-business owners, but the city wants to shut cars out of the high-collision zone, according to the staff report.

City council will vote on the proposed changes next Wednesday.

Three hospitalized after apparent overdose at party

A weekend dance party landed two teens and one young adult in the intensive care unit, apparently overdosing on a drug known as "liquid ecstasy," also used as a date-rape drug.

Police found the three partygoers, all suspected of overdosing on GHB, when responding to a disturbance at a dance party hosted by a local promoter at the Polish Veterans Hall in East Vancouver Friday around 10 p.m.

As police dispersed a crowd of 100 young people, a 20-year-old man was carried out of the hall unresponsive and "foaming at the mouth."

Shortly after, patrols found a 15-year-old boy and a 14-year-old girl unconscious and foaming at the mouth. All three were taken to the intensive care unit.

GHB, gamma-hydroxybutyric acid, is an illegal drug that is used as an anesthetic in medical settings. Consuming the drug along with alcohol is dangerous and potentially lethal, as it can lead to vomiting and unconsciousness.

Four injured. Police urge longboarders to stay safe

Police in West Vancouver are pleading with longboarders to consider their personal safety after four people injured themselves in the last two weeks.

Two men in their 20s were hospitalized Wednesday after they collided with a parked truck while longboarding.

Const. Jeff Palmer said a 23-year-old man from Surrey was released from hospital Wednesday and that a 20-year-old from North Vancouver was expected to go home Thursday.

A 17-year-old boy from West Vancouver who suffered serious head injuries on May 24 remains in intensive care.

A 19-year-old male had facial cuts after slamming into a vehicle in West Vancouver on Monday, but Palmer says he could have been seriously injured after ending up underneath the car. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Surrey party bus

Drugs, alcohol played no role in death of teen

Neither drugs nor alcohol played a role in the February death of a teen who collapsed aboard a party bus in Surrey.

Ernest Azoadam, 16, died Feb. 15 at Surrey Memorial Hospital.

The teen was with friends on a party bus when he collapsed. When police arrived at a gas station at 11 p.m. they found him unresponsive.

He was taken to hospital where attempts were made to revive him, but they were unsuccessful.

At the time, RCMP said alcohol was found on the bus.

But in a press release Thursday, Fraser regional coroner Vincent Stancato said a toxicology exam could not identify any alcohol, drug or medication that would explain the teen's death.

MLA resigns as BC Pavilion chair

As Premier Christy Clark prepares for a byelection, likely next month, in her chosen riding of Westside-Kelowna, another B.C. Liberal is also making changes.

Langley City Mayor and newly elected Surrey-Fleetwood MLA Peter Fassbender says he has resigned as chairman of BC Pavilion Corporation, which operates BC Place and the Vancouver Convention Centre.

The resignation is in preparation for Fassbender's swearing-in as an MLA and a possible cabinet post.

Natural gas plan a 'pipe dream': MLA

Sworn in. Climate scientist Andrew Weaver takes first official swing at Clark

British Columbia's first provincially elected Green party member wasted little time attacking Premier Christy Clark's plans to export liquefied natural gas from northern B.C. to Asia after a swearing-in ceremony Thursday at the legislature.

Climate scientist Andrew Weaver said Clark's plans to sell cheap and plentiful B.C. natural gas at inflated prices in Asia is a dream that will end up costing B.C. taxpayers through subsidies to gas companies.

"It makes no economic sense to go out on this path," he said.

"The argument that there's going to be a market for LNG in the future, some future 10 years from now that will reflect the $12 or so differential in price between Asia and British Columbia, is a pipe dream."

Clark's Liberals say LNG exports to Asia represent a trillion-dollar economic opportunity that will wipe out the province's debt — currently at more than $60 billion — within 15 years and drastically cut, if not eliminate, the seven per cent provincial sales tax.

But Weaver, who will represent one voice in a legislature of 85 members that includes a newly elected Liberal majority,

Climate expert

"Just because you say it will be so does not mean there will be a market for it." Andrew Weaver said he believes B.C. faces stiff competition from Russia, Australia, the United States and China when it comes to cashing in on natural gas.

Clark's Liberals acknowledge that B.C. must act quickly to secure its place in the world LNG market, while energy experts suggest there is ample room for several energy exporters in Asia, because the continent's needs are vast.

Jaywalking. Majority of tickets rendered in Downtown Eastside: Stats

A pair of local advocacy groups want police to explain a large discrepancy in how bylaw tickets, particularly jaywalking, are issued in Vancouver's poorest and richest neighbourhoods.

According to statistics obtained by Pivot and the Vancouver Area Network of Drug Users, 76 per cent of all jaywalking tickets in Vancouver were written in the Downtown Eastside over the past four years.

By comparison, not a single jaywalking ticket was issued in Kerrisdale or Dunbar/Southlands. The reason, said VPD Const. Brian Montague, is that a disproportionate number of people are hit and killed in the Downtown Eastside.

B.C. Parkway. Bike path named among worst roads in the province

A Vancouver bike path has made BCAA's annual list of the province's worst roads.

B.C. Parkway, a bike and walking path that parallels the Expo Line, was ranked second worst, behind only Westside Road in Kelowna.

It was the first time a bike path has made the list.

"(It) shows that cycling safety is an on-going concern and cyclists really see bike paths as their roads," Ken Cousins, BCAA's associate vice-president of Road Assist, said in a statement.

According to survey respondents, the main issue with B.C. Parkway was the safety of cyclists and pedestrians.

Darcie Clark. Family to testify at hearings into Criminal Code changes Representatives of grieving British Columbia mom Darcie Clark are travelling to Ottawa to add their support to proposed legislation that will change the way mentally ill offenders are handled.

Dave Teixeira says he will testify Monday before the Standing Committee on Justice and Human Rights as it examines Bill C-54, a Criminal Code revision imposing stringent conditions on anyone found not criminally responsible for a crime.

Clark's three young children were killed by their father in Merritt in 2008, but Allan Schoenborn was found not criminally responsible for the slayings.

Since then he has been held at the Forensic Psychiatric Institute in suburban Vancouver, eligible for yearly release reviews and, in 2011, the B.C. Review Board allowed him escorted visits into the community, but permission was withdrawn after strong opposition from Clark's family, who say Clark now lives in the same suburb.

City archives present a Vancouver for the ages

On record. The archives 80th anniversary event will feature some real gems, including a correspondence between the city and The Beatles

MATT KIELTYKA

Vancouverites can get a glimpse into the city's rich and dense history Friday as the City of Vancouver Archives celebrates its 80th anniversary.

A public event at city hall from 1 to 4 p.m. will show people the very best of what the archives have to offer: from the diary of a young Vancouverite making a cross-Europe journey at the outset of the Second World War, letters from Captain George Vancouver to correspondence between the city and The Beatles (including a list of band-

Free prints of historic Vancouver photographs will also be given away.

"One of the questions we get the most is 'Are you open to the public?' I think that's a failure on our part and one of the reasons we're having this event," said archivist Les Mobbs. "I don't like using the word much, but these really are treasures of the city archives that will be on display. They're special items that show the range and depth of Vancouver's history."

The City of Vancouver Archives are the oldest municipal archives outside Quebec, and include 1.5 million photographs, 45,000 architectural drawings and maps, 2,600 audio/visual recording and 47 terabytes of digitalized records.

No beef with beef. E. coli outbreak hasn't shaken consumer confidence

Canadian cattle producers say an E. coli outbreak that made 18 people sick and led to a recall last fall hasn't shaken consumer confidence in beef.

Canada Beef Inc., the industry's marketing arm, said total beef consumption last year was up 2.2 per cent from 2011.

Chairman Chuck MacLean said the industry supports the findings of an independent review that blamed lax attitudes by federal inspectors and staff at the XL Foods plant in Brooks, Alta., for the tainted meat.

Canada Beef said it also supports Ottawa's plan to tighten rules for meat plants and add more inspections.

"I like the 30 recommendations and I think a lot of them are already being enacted," MacLean said Thursday from Bow Island in southeastern Alberta.

The national organ transplant network has complied with a judge's order and placed a dying 10-year-old girl on the adult waiting list for a lung.

The Organ Procurement and Transplantation Network added her to the list Wednesday night after U.S. District Judge Michael Baylson's ruling, U.S. Health and Human Services Secretary Kathleen

The girl, Sarah Murnaghan, also remains on the priority list for a lung from a pediatric donor, Sebelius said.

Sarah's parents had challenged existing policy that made children under 12 wait for pediatric lungs to become available, or be offered lungs donated by adults.

U.S. doctor saves a life — a baby moose

Southwest Montana.

On a fishing trip near Missoula, she and a guide saw the young calf caught in the current

A Pennsylvania doctor on a guided fishing trip in southwestern Montana went home with an amazing tale of hauling in a 25-pound lunker — a baby moose she helped rescue from rushing waters.

Karen Sciascia of Red Hill, Pa., and a guide were fishing the Big Hole River on Saturday when they spotted a cow moose with a calf trying to cross the river. "We were watching this adult female struggling back and forth, and we didn't see a baby until we got close," Sciascia told the Missoulian on Thursday.

"Mom kept pushing — the current was pretty swift. "The mother bolted and took off across the river. She was trying to get across the main portion of the channel, and even she struggled."

When the calf stepped off the gravel bar into the water to follow its mother, it was swept downstream.

Sciascia and guide Seth McLean followed downstream, finally spotting the tiny moose's nose just above the rushing water.

They then rescued the tiny, frightened baby moose and took it back to where the nervous mother was lo-

Miss World pageant covers up this year

Indonesia. Pageant contestants will have to opt for more conservative sarongs instead of bikinis

Miss World has axed the famed bikinis from this year's pageant in Indonesia, replacing the skimpy swimsuits with conservative beach sarongs amid mounting protests from hardline Muslim groups, organizers said Thursday.

All of the more than 130 contestants will be required to wear Bali's traditional long sarongs instead of the sexy bikinis that are historically part of the competition, said Adjie S. Soeratmadjie of the RCTI, the official broadcaster and local organizer.

Parts of the pageant will take place on the resort island of Bali and the final round will be held Sept. 28 near the capital, Jakarta. Indonesia is the world's most populous Muslim country.

"There will be no bikini in this year's Miss World pageant to respect our traditional customs and values," Soeratmadjie said, adding that the London-based Miss World Organization is on board with the decision.

"This is a sensitive issue in Indonesia. We have discussed it since last year and they have agreed," he said.

The chairwoman of the Miss World Organization, Julia Morley, confirmed that none of the 137 contestants would wear a bikini.

Ici. Radio-Canada defends its rebranding attempt

The French-language CBC sought to calm a backlash over its rebranding efforts following complaints from top to bottom within the organization.

Radio-Canada issued a statement late Thursday after fielding complaints from the federal cabinet table to the shop floor, with one of its own workers' unions condemning a move that also drew a fair bit of public ridicule online.

The organization moved to insist its historic name will remain prominent.

The organization's executive vice-president said in a statement that he wanted to correct "misperceptions" that the organization was changing its name.

Louis Lalonde said it's not. He said the new brand name "Ici" — French for "Here" — will be part of the identity but the organizational name won't otherwise change.

"The organization is called Radio-Canada," he said in a statement.

"On my new business card, and those of all my colleagues, you will find the words, 'Ici Radio-Canada.' We are immensely proud of our name and its heritage."

The marketing effort has sown considerable confusion. Radio-Canada employees themselves have not been immune to that bewilderment.

Just a day earlier, there was a screen crawl on the organization's all-news network declaring, "Bye Bye Radio-Canada."

A union representing Radio-Canada workers, meanwhile, said it was "firmly" opposed to the new moniker. Some employees also grumbled privately on their own social networks about the new brand.

Beneath a story on Radio-Canada's own website, comments condemning the switch were getting approximately 15 clicks of support from other readers for each one that disagreed. THE CANADIAN PRESS

The good in games. Findings show video games have an upside

If you still think video games will rot your kid's brain, Dr. Kathy Sanford has something to tell you.

"Painting things with a simplistic, negative brush is not helpful at all," the University of Victoria professor said. "Video games aren't going away, so we need to think about more deep and complex issues rather than just saying don't play them," — and that's exactly what Sanford is doing.

For the past three years, she's observed children playing video games to see how it affects their development. What she's found may shock some parents.

"They're actually learning

Good games

Professor says video games help children build their own moral compasses.

- One game required the player to murder their spouse, which left kids pondering the difference between right and wrong.

a lot," Sanford said, noting kids pick up problem-solving and leadership skills from games.

As well, video games that feature collaborative or team play also teach kids how to negotiate and cooperate with their peers. LUKE SIMCOE/METRO

Americans outraged at Verizon handing over call info

A man talks on a phone outside the U.S. Courthouse in Washington, Thursday, where the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Court resides. An order was granted by the secret court on April 25, good until July 19, for the National Security Agency (NSA) to secretly collect the phone records of millions of U.S. Verizon customers. CLIFF OWEN/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Protecting America. Order from the U.S. National Security Agency requires details of customer calls be turned over Americans were outraged Thursday that the biggest wireless carrier in the United States, Verizon, is providing the feds with logs of customer phone calls, but politicians brushed off their concerns by pointing out the practice has been in place for seven years and is aimed at nabbing terrorists.

"I'm a Verizon customer; I don't mind Verizon turning over records to the government," said Lindsey Graham, a Republican senator harshly critical of the Obama administration's surveillance of reporters' phone calls and emails.

In a court order obtained by the British Guardian newspaper, the National Security Agency requires Verizon to turn over "originating and terminating" telephone numbers as well as the location, time and duration of calls. It also demands that the order be kept secret.

The Washington Post reported that the program, called PRISM, targets known terrorism suspects or broadly collects data from other Americans via their Microsoft, Yahoo, Google, Facebook, PaTalk, AOL, Skype, YouTube and Apple accounts. The National Security Agency and the FBI use the program.

Not their fault

The firm says in a memo to employees that while "Verizon continually takes steps to safeguard its customers' privacy," it must hand over information when ordered to by a court.

Mexico

Soldiers rescue 165 kidnapped U.S.-bound migrants

Mexican soldiers have rescued 165 people kidnapped by a drug cartel and held for as long as three weeks in a home alongside the U.S. border.

National security spokesman Eduardo Sanchez says 150 victims were U.S.-bound migrants from Central America. Fourteen were Mexicans and one was from India. He said Thursday that a 20-year-old man found guarding the house was detained.

The rescue occurred on Tuesday in Gustavo Diaz Ordaz, a town across the border from McAllen, Texas.

The Zetas cartel is behind most abductions of migrants. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today Show. Wrist slasher says America's IRS ruined his life

A 76-year-old man yelling that the government was going to take his house slit his wrists outside NBC's Today Show Thursday morning before he was taken into police custody as an emotionally disturbed person, police said.

The man, Pak Chong-Mar, was in the crowd outside the Today studio at Rockefeller Plaza in New York and was yelling about how the U.S. Internal Revenue Service was corrupt and ruined his life, authorities said. He took out a knife and sliced at his wrists, police said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pope weighs in on food waste

Study. UN food agency research finds that one-third of food produced in the world is lost or wasted

KIERON MONKS

Metro World News

Pope Francis added his voice to the growing campaign against food waste on World Environment Day, attacking a "culture of waste" that is "stealing from the table of those who are poor and hungry".

Awareness around the campaign has grown rapidly, with the European Parliament recently adopting a resolution to halve food waste in member states by 2025. There have already been successes, such as household waste in the U.K. dropping 8 per cent over two years.

Activists welcomed the Pope's remarks.

"It is important, and what

GETTY IMAGES FILE

he said was right," said Tristram Stuart, founder of activist group Feeding the 5000, part of the EU FUSIONS initiative (Food Use of Social Innovation by Optimising Waste Prevention Strategies). "Wasting imported food means the locals in food-insecure areas cannot buy it, so it is taken off their table."

But the focus should be more on the suppliers, Stuart claimed. "Retailers shouldn't deflect attention to the consumer, most food waste is in the supply chain. But consumers have the responsibility to ensure the businesses we buy from every day are held to account."

One strategy is to audit the supply and release comprehensive figures on waste, with several European parliaments considering such a proposal. Stuart is optimistic that agreements can be reached.

"Compared to other campaigns like climate change, food waste is something that strikes people as instinctively wrong, from a taxi driver in Delhi to a CEO in New York, and there are relatively simple solutions."

International supermarkets have been slow to commit to waste cutting proposals, but Charlie Clutterbuck of the U.K. Food Ethics Council recommends people can influence them by buying closer to home.

"Localism is a solution," he told Metro. "If there is a network to link local initiatives it will stop food prices rising, make us less dependent and change the supply model."

Canadian seeks record for wine label collection

Guinness attempt. Toronto man has more than 160,000 labels — though he didn't drink all that vino

It would take more than four consecutive days to view every item in what just might be the world's largest wine-label collection.

Toronto resident and former sommelier Alain Laliberte owns about 160,000 wine labels, carefully stored in 123 shoeboxes. He has contacted Guinness World Records because he is confident he has enough to break the current high of 16,349 labels.

Of course, he hasn't managed to taste the contents of all 160,000 bottles. But with an average of 5,000 wines sampled per year, he's not that far off.

Laliberte's hobby led last weekend to him becoming the jury president at a wine-labels championship, organized as part of the International Wine Championship in Quebec City.

Strawberry fields under the weather

At least 40 per cent of Nova Scotia's strawberry industry, a sector worth about $18 million annually, has been damaged by an insect-borne virus, provincial Agriculture Minister John MacDonell said Thursday. The virus is carried by aphids and has been detected in the Debert area, near Truro, as well as the Annapolis Valley. But MacDonell said he wasn't worried about the possibility of the virus spreading much further because of the relatively short distances aphids travel. The affected plants aren't harmful to eat but they are often stunted and can't be sold, and berries may disappear from the plants.

Charges laid in chocolate price-fixing case

The accused in a chocolate price-fixing case could face a bitter fate if convicted — millions of dollars in fines for the companies and potential jail time for the individuals.

Canada's Competition Bureau said Thursday it is laying criminal charges against Nestle Canada Inc., Mars Canada Inc. and ITWAL Ltd., a network of independent wholesale distributors.

Also charged are former Nestle Canada president Robert

Leonidas; Sandra Martinez, former president of confectionery for Nestle Canada; and David Glenn Stevens, president and chief executive of ITWAL.

The companies and individuals are accused of conspiracy under the Competition Act.

In separate statements, both Nestle and Mars said they intend to "vigorously defend" themselves against the charges. Both said the allegations date back to 2007 and earlier.

Midnight munchies. McDonald's offers breakfast for night owls

McDonald's is taking a small step toward offering breakfast items outside of its usual breakfast hours — at least if you're a night owl.

Starting this month, the fast-food chain says participating 24-hour restaurants in select U.S. locations will offer an After Midnight menu that includes its Egg McMuffin, Big Mac and Chicken McNuggets.

Customers will be able to create Midnight Value Meals, with either fries or hash browns as their side items, McDonald's says.

A mockup of the menu provided by the company showed an Egg McMuffin paired with French fries, next to the heading, "Dinner or Breakfast? Yes."

The rollout of the menu, which is available from midnight to 4 a.m., builds on a Breakfast After Midnight menu the company has been testing. McDonald's notes that

- Fans of McDonald's breakfast have long wanted the chain to make its Egg McMuffins and biscuits available later in the day.
- But a hurdle for the company is that operations behind the counter would get too complicated, with workers having to juggle such a wide array of items in a limited space.

franchisees may adapt their offerings based on local preferences.

McDonald's CEO Don Thompson said in a CNBC interview earlier this year that the company was open to expanding its breakfast hours.

VOICES

FEMALE VIAGRA HARD TO SWALLOW

1 Sexyspecs. Google Glass users were briefly treated to some mobile porn before the Internet giant's moral police yanked it out from under them. The perfectly respectable app, entitled T'ts and Glass, allowed users to share unfiltered content, and they stopped it. Kudos to Google for taking a stand and saying, "Hey, you can watch porn on your desktops, laptops and smartphones all you want, just not while you're crossing the street, dammit!"

2 Calling occupants. NASA Prof. Joel Levine is looking for $650 million to finance an aerial regional-scale environmental survey. Basically, a robotic, rocket-powered airplane to fly around Mars searching for trace gases that prove there is life on the planet. We have no information on how much the Martians spent probing Earth for humans with trace gases.

3 Badass Biebs. Justin Bieber is smoking weed, getting inked, hanging with gangsta rappers, and wearing white undershirts with gold chains. He's taken to fast cars and has even added a lazy little ghetto-strut to his walk. I am just waiting for his first teardrop tattoo so I can actually start listening to his music.

4 Subcellular. A recent study revealed that even though Google's Android phones captured a majority of the U.S. smartphone market share, the average iPhone user spends more than 50 per cent more time actually using their device than Android users. The reason? Porn.

5 Forever young. Researchers in Australia performed a study of sun damage among 900 people. Some applied sunscreen on a daily basis, while others used it only when they felt exposed. After four years, those using sunscreen religiously had 24 per cent less skin aging than the others. They were also extremely pale, completely broke, and more prone to having objects slip from their greasy hands.

6 For the ladies. A Dutch company called Emotional Brain is performing clinical trials of a new drug, Lybrido. The female Viagra is said to treat hypoactive sexual desire disorder. HSDD is a lack of sexual desire affecting many women. If the research proves successful, scientists will immediately begin work on another pill that will make women care enough to take the first one.

7 Double dribble. Former NBA all-stars Jason Kidd and Grant Hill were drafted one after the other in 1994, shared Rookie of the Year honours in 1995, and at 40, were among the five oldest players in the league this year. This week, two days after Grant Hill retired, Jason Kidd announced he would do the same. Sources close to Hill say he is looking for a new home as far away from Kidd as possible.

8 This week. In 1969, Keith Richards and partner Anita Pallenberg were in a car accident near their home in Sussex. While the car was written off and Pallenberg suffered a broken collarbone, Richards escaped serious injury, proving once again that Keith cannot be killed.

9 Also this week. In 1997, Oasis guitarist Noel Gallagher played a five-song set at the Tibet Freedom Concert. He then walked off stage, got drunk and punched out a fan. I'm kidding. That was not the night he punched out a fan.

10 Happy anniversary. To my wife of several years, thanks for putting up with me.

@metropicks asked: Giving employees sick days is becoming obsolete. What's the best way to use your sick day?

@Astroboi8: If people use sick days as extra vacation days. Then those who are moral are penalized.

@FrenchmanCanada: Getting better, isn't that the point?

@jarmak77: It's best not to use a sick day since most places I worked discipline you for using them.

@hoodPALS: Visit tanning salon for deep tan, get new wardrobe, and visit the amusement park and post photos on Facebook.

@RaiderRoddy: when you are actually sick !!!

@mcpeto: watching Ferris Bueller's Day Off

@HfxHeathen: Oh, good. Take away my 3 unpaid sick days a year. Productivity soars when there's sneezing in the next cubicle.

@LegendaryAres: Sometimes, you just need a day off. What's wrong with making them use up a sick day to get it? Sounds fair to me.

Synopsis

This new buddy comedy pairs Owen Wilson and Vince Vaughn for the first time since 2005's Wedding Crashers. They are Nick and Billy, two wild and crazy guys whose sales jobs are made obsolete in the technological age. Unable to get a foothold in the new media field they crash Google's Mountain View, Calif. headquarters and become "noogles" in hopes of landing gigs as interns, despite having no experience with computers. "We're looking at some sort of mental Hunger Games against a bunch of genius kids for just a handful of jobs," says Nick.

Owen Wilson and Vince Vaughn star in The Internship. HANDOUT

Searching for laughs

The Internship.

Owen Wilson and Vince Vaughn fail to rekindle that Wedding Crashers magic in this poor man's version of Revenge of the Nerds

Richard: Mark, this is the funniest infomercial I've ever seen. As a comedy movie it doesn't rate that high, but as an advertisement for Google it's a knee slapper. I've seen product placement in movies before, but this is something else. By the time Rose Byrnes' character says, "I believe what we do here makes people's lives better," I was ready to worship at the Church of the Sacred Search Engine. We also learn that Google is ranked as the best place to work in America. That's all great, but I was hoping for more laughs with my infomercial. What did you think?

Mark: Ugh! The shameless corporate tie-in made me want to take a shower. And it opens up the door for less savoury companies to do the same thing: can Monsanto: The Movie be far behind? It's too bad, because the leads are great, and it's a great premise — but I didn't laugh once. It could have been a version of Animal House set at a business behemoth, but comes off as a bad Revenge of the Nerds. The idea would make a great reality series, but the movie flops and feels engineered from the first frame onwards.

RC: I'm not so sure I thought the leads were great. There are some laughs in The Internship. Unfortunately, very few of them are generated by Vaughn and Wilson. The chemistry that made Wedding Crashers such a big hit eight years ago is still in place, but the material isn't. They still banter a blue streak but it feels tired and old, like many of the jokes. The two luddites at a tech mecca should have been workable, but it often feels like laughing at grandpa because he can't figure out how to work the remote.

MB: I meant the leads are great, but not in this movie! Everything seems laboured, underscored, and over directed. These two guys may preach the value of eccentricity in the workplace, but the script defies their goal at every turn. It's a very conventional movie that's even a little smarmy at times. The old Vince Vaughn would have made fun of the sentimentality that crowds any good moments out of the picture. And Wilson's role is just too vaporous to register.

RC: Perhaps next time the screenwriters can Google some better jokes.

MB: I say Yahoo! to that.

Before Midnight

Director. Richard Linklater

Stars. Ethan Hawke, Julie Delpy,

If you're a fan of the "Before" movies, watching Before Midnight will be like reconnecting with old friends. In the almost 20 years since we first met Jesse and Celine (Ethan Hawke and Julie Delpy) they have flirted and talked through the vagaries of life in two films, Before Sunset and Before Sunrise. Now they are a committed couple with twin daughters, but their introspection continues courtesy of beautifully written and performed conversations that explore how fissures can develop no matter how deep a couple's connection.

RICHARD CROUSE

Thriller

The Purge

Director. James DeMonaco

Stars. Ethan Hawke, Lena Headey

To call The Purge cooked-up is an injustice to baked goods. A dystopian futuristic thriller about a family enduring an annual 12-hour government-backed event whereby crimes of any sort are legal (somehow this curbs violence the other 364 days of the calendar?) is as contrived and callous as cinema gets. If the filmmaker's aim was to create a moral allegory akin to A Clockwork Orange, he didn't even come within an eyelash.

Comedy

The Kings of Summer

Director. Jordan Vogt-Roberts

Stars. Nick Robinson, Nick Offerman

Like many of today's comedies, The Kings of Summer features scores of free-associational ad-libbing, often by staffers on NBC's Thursday night lineup. But give it credit: It at least has a genuinely silly plot, not something you can just shoot on the fly. Sick of the tyrannical parenting of his gruff, widowed dad (Nick Offerman), Ohio high schooler Joe (Nick Robinson) convinces longtime bestie Patrick to run away into the woods. Most of what makes The Kings of Summer questionably tolerable is that it's frequently inspired.

MATT PRIGGE

There's not much 'Buzz' in space: Aldrin

While astronaut Buzz Aldrin enjoys movies about space, he doesn't always think they get it right. His main point of contention after seeing After Earth: "There was a lot of noise. In space, you don't get that much noise."

Aldrin, who followed Neil Armstrong onto the surface of the moon during the historic Apollo 11 landing in 1969, says that "noise doesn't propagate in a vacuum. We talked over headsets."

Aldrin enjoyed the father-son dynamic between Will Smith and son Jaden, but thought there was a little too much "shoot'em-up" for his taste. "I hope the aliens are more peaceful than they are in this film, wherever they are," Aldrin joked.

It's the end of the world as (Seth and Evan) know it ...

This is the End.
Superbad writers talk the apocalypse, comedy and condoms

LIZ BROWN
liz.brown@metronews.ca

The kings of the buddy comedy are back with a film of apocalyptic proportions. Seth Rogen and Evan Goldberg have been friends since childhood and writing partners since high school, where they first penned Superbad.

Their new collaboration, This is the End, features an ensemble cast of some of their favourite past co-conspirators. Rogen, Jay Baruchel, James Franco, Jonah Hill, Danny McBride and Craig Robinson (all playing themselves) hunker down in Franco's house during the end of the world. A veritable list of Hollywood's who's who round out the cast with bit parts: Michael Cera, Rihanna, Channing Tatum, Paul Rudd, Jason Segel and more have a role to play in the rapture.

Recently Metro caught up with the Vancouver-bred pals in Toronto over (fittingly) a bottle of Molson Canadian.

This idea was spawned from a short you wrote in 2007 called Jay & Seth vs. The Apocalypse. How did it turn into a full-length movie?

Seth: It took us a really long time to think of a way to expand it, honestly. We just couldn't think of where it would go, so it really took us four years of just kicking around the idea to really even get what type of full length movie it could be.

Evan: And then we had the people-play-themselves idea separate, and until we combined them, it didn't seem like the apocalypse thing was a full idea to us.

Seth: And then around three and a half years ago, we realized we could combine them.

Seth Rogen talks about the end of the world in Toronto last month. LIZ BEDDALL/METRO

There's a lot of self-deprecation in the movie. Was it hard to get the actors to poke fun at themselves?

Evan: The studios were kind of frightened by the concept of actors playing themselves.

Seth: The actors were really into it. I don't think anyone said no based on content. We were going out to these actors to see if they would play themselves so they were overwhelmingly psyched about it, so it was nice to see that some people thought it was a good idea.

It's the end of the world, you can only have three survival items. What are they?

Evan: Three of these four: water, food, guns, condoms.

Seth: The thing about guns is they can help you acquire any other items you may need...

Evan: But you don't want venereal disease.

Seth: With a gun, you can get condoms.

Evan: True.

Wouldn't condoms depend on who you were with?

Evan: Condoms are just always a good idea.

Seth: You can fill them with water and play with them.

Whedon's much ado about comics and TV

Beauty in the Bard.
Director Joss Whedon has found inspiration in Shakespeare

Some might find it strange that Joss Whedon's first movie since The Avengers — his 2012

megahit about a team of Marvel Comics superheroes — is an independent adaptation of Shakespeare's Much Ado About Nothing. But it makes perfect sense to him. The man who created TV hits like Buffy the Vampire Slayer and its spinoff Angel says his dramas all have a bit of the Bard in them.

"When you're working in Marvel Comics — whether it's comics or the cinematic universe — you're cribbing from Shakespeare," Whedon said in a recent interview.

"The big themes, the big emotions, its kings, and betrayal and love and tragedy and that good stuff, and even in the way I write, any time you get to write about an Asgardian, there's going to be a touch of the Elizabethan in there."

While Much Ado debuts in theatres next Friday, Whedon's focus is already on Avengers 2 — due out in 2015 — and his upcoming Marvel-based TV series Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D., which premieres on ABC this fall. Whedon acknowledges he does feel "pressure" to follow up on the success of The Avengers — the third highest-grossing film ever.

The comic book enthusiast says The Avengers seems perfectly normal to him — a world where Thor, Iron Man and Captain America "hang out" — and he was able to readily convey that to a wider audience.

CTV adds Marvel's Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D. to fall lineup

Television. The Joss Whedon-created series will anchor a new Tuesday lineup

Buzzy shows starring Toni Collette, Josh Holloway, Malin Akerman and Bethenny Frankel are joining a revamped CTV lineup, but the network is touting a relative scarcity of new series as testament to a consistent, stable schedule.

The market leader notes it's picked up only four new dramas, two new comedies and one new unscripted series for prime time this fall.

They include the Collette thriller Hostages, also featuring Dylan McDermott and Tate Donovan; Marvel's Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D., created by Joss Whedon; the paranormal drama The Tomorrow People and the police drama Played.

The Whedon show will anchor a whole new lineup Tuesday, to be followed by the '80s-set family comedy The Goldbergs and the new sitcom Trophy Wife, starring Bradley Whitford and Akerman. The night is capped by Person of Interest, which jumps to CTV after previously airing on City.

Meanwhile, budding chefs are the stars of Junior Masterchef, a spin-off of the culinary competition series that will showcase talented kids between the ages of eight and 13 in food challenges and cook-offs.

More is on the way for mid-season, with additions including Holloway's high-tech spy show Intelligence, the mystical drama Believe from Lost creator J.J. Abrams and Masterchef Canada, a Canadian version of the Gordon Ramsay hit.

Mid-season comedies include Kirstie Alley in her self-titled comedy, Kirstie, the serialized sitcom Mixology, Dave Foley's new multicam comedy Spun Out, and the '90s-set family comedy Surviving Jack, with former Law & Order: Special Victims Unit star Christopher Meloni.

"Year-after-year, CTV offers programming consistency and durability not found anywhere else," Phil King, president of CTV programming and sports, said Thursday in a statement.

Executives were to introduce the new lineup with all-day promotional events Thursday featuring Frankel, Donovan and Delroy Lindo from Believe.

Daytime this fall will see the addition of the homegrown talk show The Social and the official arrival of Frankel's talk show Bethenny, which previewed with a short run last year.

And Late Night with Jimmy Fallon joins CTV in the fall, with Seth Meyers in the chair this winter after Fallon leaves to take over The Tonight Show from Jay Leno. It will follow The Daily Show and lead into Conan.

Meanwhile, CTV is moving Dancing With The Stars, Tuesday's edition of

The Voice, The X Factor, American Idol and Undercover Boss over to CTV Two this fall.

CTV also announced that its entire new lineup will be available on CTV GO, an on-demand platform allowing viewers to access a live stream of the channel as well as premium on-demand programming. It debuts this fall.

Tatum worries about Bieber's development

Despite having a newborn daughter at home to concern himself with, Channing Tatum admits he's more worried about another young person: Justin Bieber. "I do believe that whatever age you become famous, you end up staying that age," Tatum tells Vanity Fair. "I worry about Bieber, man. That kid's wildly talented. I hope he doesn't fall down into the usual ways of young kids because it's so hard for someone to be responsible when they're not asked to be."

Pop stars in space

This may or may not give Channing Tatum more reason to be concerned: Justin Bieber has booked a spot on a Virgin Galactic suborbital space flight, according to Virgin founder Richard Branson. "Great to hear Justin Bieber and (his manager) Scooter Braun are latest Virgin Galactic future astronauts.

Congrats, see you up there," Branson posted to Twitter this week. Bieber seemed to confirm the news by re-tweeting the mogul's sentiments. Back in February, Bieber tweeted that he wants to "do a concert in space," so perhaps this is more of a scouting trip than a vacation.

Ethan Hawke gushes over Cage's acting abilities

Ethan Hawke admits he's more than a little "obsessed" with fellow actor Nicolas Cage.

"He's the only actor since Marlon Brando that's actually done anything new with the art of acting," he said during a Q&A session on Reddit. "He's successfully taken us away from an obsession with naturalism into a kind of presentation style of acting that I imagine was popular with the old troubadours. If I could erase his bottom half bad movies and only keep his top half movies, he would blow everyone out of the water."

No word, though, on whether Hawke is going to let Cage influence his own acting style.

Planning a wedding is no piece of cake, although you do get one in the end. But the road to the big day can be bumpy, especially when it comes to choosing wine to be served for that all-important toast to the bride.

Try to focus on wines that will charm everyone from your know-it-all boss to your new mother-in-law. Worry less about what you prefer and more about what the majority of your guests will enjoy.

Then there's the cost. Here is where size matters. There's a savings component when you trade up, so bigger is always better.

The selection of 1.5 litre bottles varies wildly across the country. So does their flavour profiles, with many "Canadian" versions made from a blend of imported and domestic juice.

Chile offers some of the best value when it comes to larger bottles, with Concha y Toro's 2011 Frontera Cabernet Sauvignon Merlot (1,500 ml, $13.95 to $19.99) offering bright, red berry fruit and Frontera Sauvignon Blanc (1,500 ml, $13.95 to $19.99) showing off gooseberry and citrus expression.

Truth be told, they're what I served at my nuptials.

A great way to make your own healthier pizzas is to use thin flour tortillas or pita bread rather than the thick pizza dough that has more calories than nutrients!

Use whatever vegetables and cheese you like.

1. Preheat the oven to 400 F. Place pita bread or tortillas on pizza metal or ceramic dish.

2. Divide the tomato sauce among the breads, ensuring to spread evenly.

Ingredients

- 4 flour small tortillas or pita breads (preferably whole wheat)
- 3/4 cup tomato pasta sauce
- 8 small mushrooms, thinly sliced
- 1/4 cup diced sweet red or green pepper
- 1 tbsp chopped fresh basil
- 1/2 tsp dried oregano
- 1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese
- 1/4 cup chopped feta cheese (optional)

This recipe serves eight or makes 16 hors d'oeuvres. MARK SHAPIRO, FROM ROSE REISMAN BRINGS HOME LIGHT COOKING (ROBERT ROSE)

3. Top with mushrooms, red pepper, basil and oregano. Sprinkle with cheeses.

4. Bake the pizza for 12 minutes or until it is crisp and the cheese is melted.

Quick Dinner. Asparagus Penne Carbonara

1. In skillet, melt butter over medium heat. Add asparagus and lemon rind. Cook 5 mins. or until tender crisp. Stir in lemon juice and mint; set aside.

2. In pot of boiling salted water, cook pasta according to package directions or until al dente. Drain and set aside.

3. In bowl, whisk eggs, Parmesan, parsley and pepper; add to drained pasta and toss for about 45 seconds until pasta is coated well. Add asparagus mixture and toss to combine. Top with grated Parmesan cheese, if desired. EGG FARMERS OF ONTARIO

Ingredients

- 1 tbsp (15 ml) butter
- 2 cups (500 ml) fresh asparagus, chopped
- 1 tsp (5 ml) grated lemon rind
- 1 tbsp (15 ml) lemon juice
- 2 tbsp (30 ml) fresh mint, chopped
- 12 oz (375 g) penne pasta
- 4 eggs
- 1/3 cup (75 ml) Parmesan cheese, freshly grated
- 2 tbsp (30 ml) fresh parsley, chopped
- Pinch ground black pepper
- Grated Parmesan cheese

Tasty casserole unites Pulled Pork and Macaroni & Cheese

1. Heat the oven to 425 F. Coat a 9-inch springform baking pan with cooking spray.

2. In bowl, mix paprika, cumin, chili powder and 1 teaspoon salt and 1/2 teaspoon pepper.

Ingredients

- 1 tsp smoked paprika
- 1 tsp ground cumin
- 1/2 tsp chili powder
- Kosher salt and black pepper
- 2 medium sweet potatoes
- 2 lbs pork tenderloin, cut into 2-inch chunks
- 13 1/2-oz bottle BBQ sauce
- 1 to 2 tbsp cider vinegar
- 8 oz elbow pasta
- 1/4 cup creme fraiche
- 1/2 cup shredded cheddar
- 1/2 cup grated Gruyere cheese
- Hot sauce, to taste
- 1/2 cup grated Parmesan
- 1 cup panko breadcrumbs
- 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter, melted

3. Slice sweet potatoes thinly as possible. Arrange single layer of slices in prepared pan. Sprinkle with bit of spice blend, then spritz with cooking spray. Repeat with additional layers of sweet potatoes and seasonings until you have used all of the slices and seasoning mixture.

4. Bake 15 mins, or until tender and lightly browned at the edges. Remove pan from the oven and set aside.

5. Bring saucepan of water to simmer. Add pork and cook 1 hour. Remove pork from pan. Using 2 forks, tear and shred the pork into bite-sized pieces. Discard the water from the pan, then return the pork to it. Add the barbecue sauce and vinegar, then mix well. Set aside.

6. Bring saucepan of salted water to boil. Add pasta and cook until al dente according to package directions. Reserve 1/4 cup of cooking water, then drain pasta and return to sauce-

A SNIP OF NEW YORK IN METRO VANCOUVER

A new breed of hair establishment has arrived in Vancouver.

Doc Follicles is a new barbershop for men and women that opened its doors May 18 in Richmond.

The shop offers predetermined cuts, much like a barbershop, but employs top stylists to create them. For classic cuts such as the "shorty and buzzer," the charge is $16, and all other cuts are $21 (includes shampoo). However, the "greyboy" cut for seniors and youths is $13 (doesn't include a shampoo).

"Barbershops are known for being inexpensive," says John Laverock, veteran hairstylist and owner of Doc Follicles. "You come in knowing what you want and just order it."

Laverock drew inspiration from the cool unisex barbershops he had seen on trips to the U.S.

"Iconic shops like Floyd's — that trend hasn't really hit Canada yet. At the heart of it, we offer a great product and talented stylists at a good price — a trendy salon in barbershop format."

The unique layout of Doc Follicles lets customers check in at the self-check-in kiosk when they arrive and choose their cut and/or colour from the menu board.

"There was a guy in here the other day who said, 'This barbershop belongs in New York,'" Laverock says. "That kind of encapsulates how you feel when you walk in the door."

Doc Follicles is easy to find at #3-6380 No. 3 Rd., Richmond, less than a block from Brighthouse SkyTrain Station beside Staples. For more, call 604-247-2200, or visit docfollicles.com.

MAKE POSITIVE CHANGE HAPPEN

REVOLUTION SHOWS HOW WE CAN HELP WORLD'S OCEANS

June 8 is World Oceans Day, and there is no better way to celebrate than by learning why our oceans are in trouble. To do that, you don't need to go to a lecture, read a book, or even a website — you just need to go to the movies.

Revolution, the new documentary by Canadian director-activist Rob Stewart, gives you the information for which you are looking. Its message is clear — our oceans are in trouble. Through environmental mismanagement and inaction, governments and corporations around the world have allowed the acidity of ocean water to steadily rise. The result — species are disappearing. And what happens underwater eventually happens on land.

But this process can be halted. Stewart travels the world in Revolution, showing us how grassroots environmental movements are making positive change happen — and how we can help. Along the way, he introduces us to some of the globe's most beautiful underwater fauna, like Pfeffer's Flamboyant Cuttlefish, an invertebrate the size of a biscuit that changes colour at will and nests in a pop can. This animal is threatened, but if we are willing to act, it can be saved.

CONTRIBUTED

Revolution debuted at the 2012 Toronto International Film Festival, where it was named runner-up for best documentary. It was later named 'most popular environmental film' at the Vancouver International Film Festival. It has received praise from major figures in the environmental movement, including David Suzuki, and from the public, which made Revolution the highest grossing Canadian film in 2013 to date.

What these successes prove is that a movie that teaches can also entertain. Among the film's most enthusiastic supporters have been educators — to date, almost 200 school groups have seen Revolution. Recently, NBC Universal and D Films, the documentary's distributor, announced a contest encouraging students to submit written or video essays explaining their plans for environmental change in their own communities. The 10 winning essayists receive $2,500 each towards their education.

"Knowing what is happening to our oceans, and how to stop it, is the most important information in the world," Stewart says. "This is our biggest battle — ever."

Revolution plays in select theatres on World Oceans Day and will be available Aug. 13 on DVD, Blu-ray, iTunes, and video-on-demand.

DOG DAYS OF SUMMER

FUN ACTIVITIES FOR YOU AND YOUR PET

Discover the joy of being active with your canine companion. Try some of these fun activities:

1 Go for a walk. Sounds basic, but many pet owners don't make it a daily practice. "Behaviour problems and obesity — the No. 1 medical problem for dogs — can arise from inadequate exercise," says Dr. Deji Odetoyinbo, a veterinarian with a busy urban practice in Toronto and 12 years experience in emergency medicine.

2 Play fetch. Whether you use balls, squeak toys or some other retrievable object, many dogs love fetching. "Dogs are social animals and retrieving something is an interaction that's mentally gratifying and intensely rewarding."

3 Go for a swim. Dogs generally like water, but swimming comes with a few caveats. "Not every breed should be allowed in water — bulldogs in particular," Odetoyinbo says. "Make sure the current is safe. And remember that floating algae can be deadly, so if the water has a blue-green film, keep your dog out."

4 Go for obedience training. This is especially important for younger dogs, but even old dogs can learn new tricks. "It's also a good way to solidify the bond between pet and owner."

5 Take your dog visiting. A well-behaved dog can do wonders for seniors and those with developmental disabilities. "Talk to your vet first to ensure your dog has the right temperament and is free of communicable health problems, since some people you encounter may be immune-compromised," Odetoyinbo says.

GEM PHOTOGRAPHY/VEER

6 Go on vacation. "Just make sure to take along first aid items, medications and food (in case you can't get your regular brand where you are going). Give your dog plenty of bathroom breaks, water and cool air while driving. Ensure immunizations are up to date and check that your destination is pet friendly."

IOFOTO/VEER

STRETCHING YOUR LEGS WITH YOUR FOUR-LEGGED FRIEND

To keep walks happy, comfortable and safe, here is a quick list of things to consider when you are out and about with your four-legged friend this summer, compiled with the help of Dr. Deji Odetoyinbo, a Toronto veterinarian with 12 years experience in emergency medicine.

Plan your route. It's easy to head out, then find that you have gone too far and your pet is struggling. "Especially short-faced breeds like pugs and bulldogs can suffer severe respiratory distress if they're exercised on hot days," Odetoyinbo says.

Stay on the grass. Concrete or paved surfaces can cause burned foot pads if you are walking on a hot day. "Staying on a path or grassy surface will keep paws cooler and act as better cushioning for a dog's joints."

Go early or late. "Many dogs keep going until they drop, so it's important to ensure they don't get overheated. Walk early or late in the day when it's cooler."

Take a leash. "Even if you're headed to an off-leash zone, your pet should be leashed en route." Not all dogs are well-behaved in the dog park, so it's best to be able to leash your pet if it or other dogs it is playing with are acting up.

Carry enough poop bags. One dog, one bag, right? Wrong! You may need extras since some dogs go multiple times — or someone else in the park might be stuck. "Three bags is a good number," Odetoyinbo says.

Don't forget water. Most dogs aren't trained to drink out of a bottle. "There are great collapsible containers that double as a dispenser that are handy and easy to carry." Check your local pet store.

Whitecaps show Rochat the road

MLS. Vancouver grabs a second-round pick in 2015, conditional pick in 2016 from D.C.

CAM TUCKER

cam.tucker@metronews.ca

The Vancouver Whitecaps traded veteran defender Alain Rochat on Thursday, in a move precipitated by the need to free up space in the budget and the emergence of another player.

The Whitecaps sent the 30-year-old Rochat to D.C. United, in exchange for a natural second-round selection in the 2015 MLS SuperDraft and a conditional pick in 2016.

Rochat originally signed with the Whitecaps in August 2010, and was with the club for its inaugural MLS season the following year.

Rochat was guaranteed $190,000 this season. The trade makes room in the salary budget of $2.95 million for Vancouver with the MLS secondary international transfer window set to open again on July 9.

Whitecaps president Bob Lenarduzzi said that this year the club won't be making the same number of sweeping mid-season changes as it did last summer.

"There won't be anywhere near the activity we had last year," said Lenarduzzi in a phone interview.

"But there could be some opportunities, if we feel that there's a positional need and the right player is available."

The sound play of Jordan Harvey over the past few weeks also contributed to the club's decision to trade Rochat.

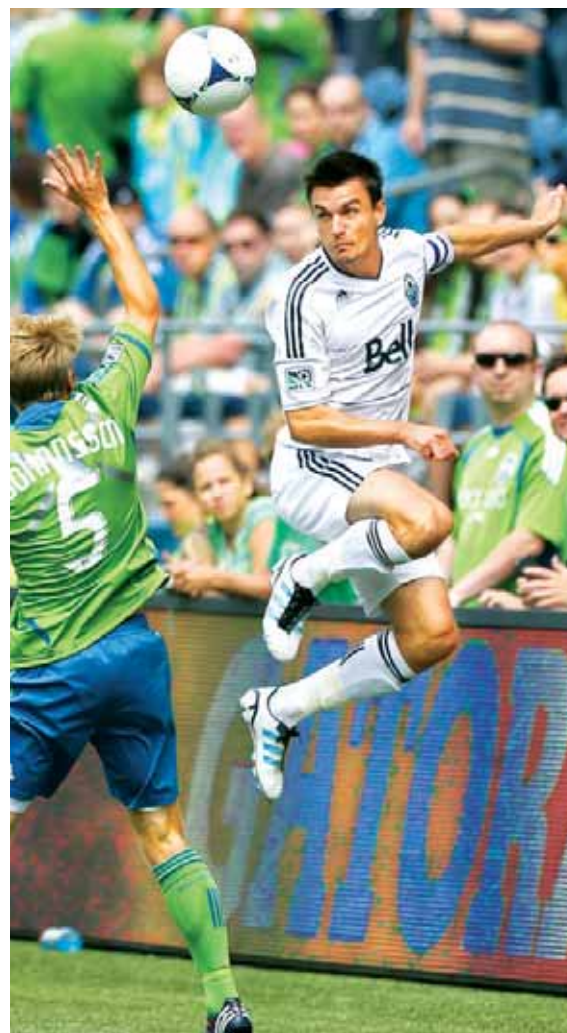

Harvey, 29, has played in only three regular-season games this year but started the last two.

He's done well with his opportunities at left-back, particularly in the Whitecaps' first road win of the season, which came last weekend against the New York Red Bulls.

Harvey scored the tying goal on a beautiful left-footed volley, and the Whitecaps came back to defeat the Red Bulls thanks to a pair of second-half goals.

The Whitecaps are on the road again this weekend, as they play the Seattle Sounders FC in a Cascadia Cup derby match at CenturyLink Field on Saturday.

The Whitecaps can move one point ahead of the Sounders and into sixth place in the Western Conference standings with a win.

Young Stars Classic

Canucks headed back to Penticton

The Vancouver Canucks will once again bring the Young Stars Classic to Penticton, after the event was cancelled last year due to the imminent threat of the lockout.

The Canucks announced Thursday that the Young Stars Classic will take part at the South Okanagan Events Centre from Sept. 5 to 9. The Calgary Flames, Edmonton Oilers, San Jose Sharks and Winnipeg Jets will also be in attendance.

The Canucks and the city of Penticton hosted the first Young Stars tournament back in 2010.

So, while that matter is finalized, the search for a new head coach continues.

TSN's Darren Dreger reported that the Canucks will have a second interview with Dallas Eakins this week.

Eakins, who just concluded his fourth year behind the bench with the AHL's Toronto Marlies, is considered one of the front-runners for the vacant position.

Marian Hossa scored the tie-breaking goal early in the third period, and the Chicago Blackhawks moved to the brink of the Stanley Cup final with a 3-2 victory over the Los Angeles Kings on Thursday night in Game 4 of the Western Conference final.

Patrick Kane tapped home the tying goal as Chicago rallied from a second-period deficit to snap the defending Stanley Cup champions' 15-game home-winning streak dating all the way back to March. Bryan Bickell had a goal and an assist playoff games at Staples Center. The champs are in trouble after Jonathan Quick failed to match Corey Crawford, who made 19 saves.

Game 5 is Saturday night in Chicago.

The Blackhawks won without top defenceman Duncan Keith, who served a one-game suspension for high-sticking Jeff Carter in the face during the second period of Game 3. Sheldon Brookbank filled in while Chicago played strong team defence in front of Crawford. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

'Expectations are high' for Westerman

CFL. Sophomore DL has plenty to prove after winning outstanding rookie honours

CAM
TUCKER

cam.tucker@metronews.ca

Jabar Westerman holds himself to a high standard, but the B.C. Lions' sophomore defensive lineman knows the bar has been raised for 2013.

Last year, Westerman, taken second overall by the Lions in the 2012 CFL draft, had 14 tackles and four sacks in 18 games, and was the West Division's most outstanding rookie.

The expectations on Westerman heading into this season have increased, especially with the departure of the personable but sometimes controversial Khalif Mitchell, who was traded to the Toronto Argonauts this off-season.

On the depth chart, Westerman is currently slotted behind Keron Williams at the defensive tackle position.

But, given his athleticism and versatility, head coach Mike Benevides believes Westerman can play any position on the defensive line and sounds prepared to have him do just that.

Benevides lauded Westerman's improved strength and conditioning, as well as his performance so far at training camp in Kamloops.

"Right now, there's some sessions that he's had out there in 1-on-1 periods, as a segment, I don't know if I've ever seen better," Benevides said Wednesday.

"We're talking about the rookie of the year in our division. So the expectations are high on him and he's certainly showing everything out there.

"I love his attention to detail, I love his focus. He's having the kind of camp I was hoping he would have."

However, Westerman isn't content.

The words — praise is more accurate — of his coach were relayed to Westerman during an interview, but even then there seemed to be no hint of satisfaction in his voice or body language.

"From my terms, it's OK," he said of his efforts at camp.

"I would like to make more plays, not necessarily more sacks or tackles, but be more disruptive."

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

Try not to let your anxieties get the better of you. As Neptune turns retrograde in the most sensitive area of your chart today, you may see problems where none exist. Act as if life is wonderful — and it will be.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

Today's events will encourage you to believe that all things are possible. But they could also tempt you to take foolish risks, so think before you act. If you make a mistake, fix it.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

Keep things simple today. Also, tread carefully when dealing with employers and other important people. They may see you as a threat and try to clip your wings.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

The planets warn you should watch what you say today, especially if you are one of those Cancerians who tend to speak before fully engaging your brain. You are entitled to your opinion but others are just as entitled to disagree.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

You will act on impulse quite a bit over the next 24 hours. Just be careful you don't say anything that could have a negative financial impact.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

Your emotions may be raging but you are determined not to let anyone know about it. That's probably a good move, because if your rivals realize how deep your feelings are, they may exploit them.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

Don't let your responsibilities weigh you down. It does not matter how much work you have to do or how far behind you are in your schedule, you must remain cheerful.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

Others may give in to despair today but no way are you going to let it affect you. In fact, the more those around you indulge in feelings of doom and gloom, the more you will laugh at them.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

Don't feel guilty about what happens to others. You are not responsible for the world and its woes and those who say you are should be laughed at loud and long.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

Neptune's apparent change of direction in the travel area of your chart will leave you a bit confused about what you should be doing and where you should be going. The good news is there's no need to rush.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

You may think you know what is going on but the planets warn you are missing an important piece of the puzzle and it could cost you money. Whatever else you do today, don't take chances.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

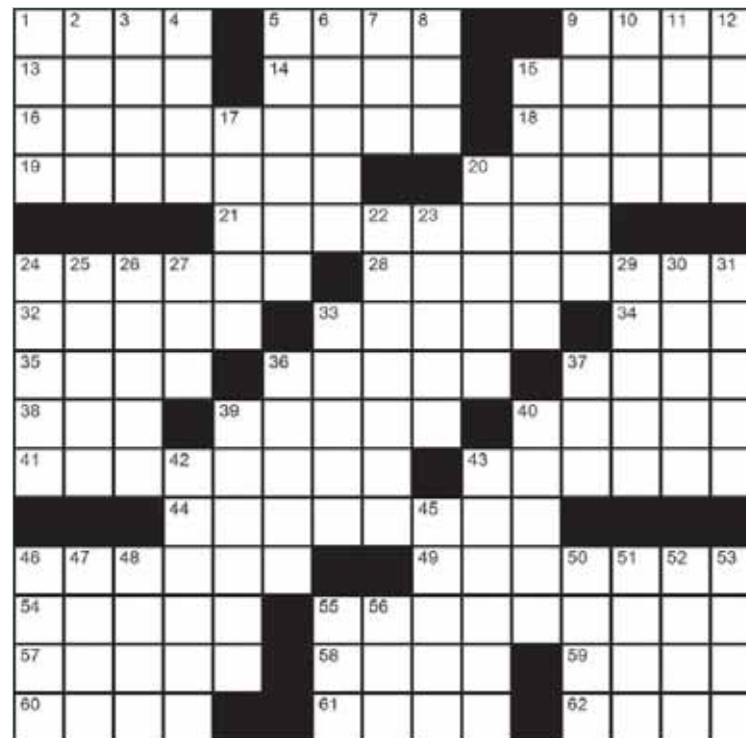

Neptune, your ruler, begins one of its retrograde phases today. Don't be surprised if important issues seem to move in the opposite direction of where you want them to.
